

Game Description:

In SUNDER, You play as a stranded adventurer who crash lands on an outer world after foolishly trying to fly through an asteroid field. The story begins just after your character emerges from the ship's wreckage. They dust themselves off and head towards the frontier outpost to find a ride home. Once there, they find the facility run down and abandoned. They surmise that whatever happened here can't have been good and will need to make a hasty exit.

The adventurer must navigate their way through the old abandoned outpost, utilizing any gear or tools they find to help them make their way through. Hopefully, somewhere deeper down in this facility is another way off this planet. Maybe you'll even find out what happened here along the way through some sort of logs. Quickly, find a ship and get back home.